STORMY ATLANTIC SHROUDS FATE OF OLD GLORY

CATHOLIC ORDER TO BUILD COLLEGE IN RICHMOND

LONE S. O. S. IS SOLE CLUE TO LOST PLANE

Ocean Hunt Is Failure;
Sea Lashes Cruisers
To Home Ports

Possibility that the monoplane Old Glory 733 is speeding on her way to Rome, while liners continued to search the Atlantic under the position given in her mysterious "S. O. S." call, is being recognized by aviation authorities.

Failure of any ship, despite the proximity of several, to find the slightest trace of the plane, plus the thorough preliminary planning for the expedition and the painstaking "tryout" of the mechanical equipment, combined to bolster the theory that the distress signal may have been caused by a minor and temporary mishap.

Some of those close to the members of the crew—James Dewitt Hill and Lloyd Bertaud, pilots, and Phil Payne, passenger—refused to admit that a serious situation existed until, at least after the hour the plane was scheduled to pass over Bordeaux, France, on the road to the Eternal City.

By EARL L. SHAB
(Staff Correspondent Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The mystery of the dark and tossing Atlantic tonight shrouded the fate of the big monoplane, Old Glory, that hopped off yesterday with three daring men on a flight to Rome.

Not a word has been heard from the plane or a trace of it seen since it sent out two S. O. S. signals early today.

And little hope was held out tonight by the captains of ships that have been combing the area in which they heard those distress signals.

WEATHER BAD

West winds are blowing out there on the north Atlantic and there are frequent strong rain squalls and a rough breaking sea.

That is why old seamen are reporting by radio tonight that they see little chance of survival for the three men.

On the other hand there are air men here and aviation experts who have not given up hope that Phil Payne, the passenger and (Continued on Page 8.)

McPherson Child Laid At Rest

Funeral services were held from the Bert Curry parlors yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Gale McPherson, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gale McPherson, 2013 Macdonald avenue. Interment was in Sunset View cemetery.

RICHMOND PEOPLE AT STATE FAIR

Among visitors at the state fair from Richmond are: R. Spierich, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bates, Mr. and Mrs. H. Grover, Kenneth R. Leam, T. J. Silvey, and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Schwartz, Mrs. L. E. Farlar.

PROFITABLE POULTRY

If you are located where you can keep a few chickens you will probably find it very profitable to buy some baby chicks, raise them on the scraps from the table and later on have your own fresh eggs and now and then a chicken for dinner.

For a place to buy baby chicks, feed and poultry supplies, consult the Buyers Guide on the classified page.

Excusez

PAUL CLAUDEL, French ambassador, returning on the Paris, declared that recent Sacco riots in Paris were not directed against Americans, but against shopkeepers who had raised the price of shoes.

REARDON, LOSH ARE HONORED

Richmond theatre managers are given prominence in the current edition of "Now," the semi-monthly magazine of the West Coast Theatres, Inc. Photographs of both Dan Reardon, manager of the California theatre and Harry Losh, manager of the Richmond theatre, are placed among the prominent West Coast Theatres managers. The magazine contains many articles of value to managers from the standpoint of "tips."

Davis Rites To Be Held Today

Contra Costa lodge No. 18 and Golden Key temple Pythian Sisters will conduct the funeral services for the late Arthur T. Davis in the Brunscher and Connelly mortuary at Martinez this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Richmond company of Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias of which Davis was a member, will act as an escort.

Davis, who formerly lived in Richmond, committed suicide Tuesday at his Franklin Canyon home following an illness of three years duration.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha H. Davis, and by his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Browning of Richmond. Mr. and Mrs. Davis moved to Franklin Canyon four years ago from Richmond, where Davis had been employed as a Santa Fe switchman for many years.

Davis was also affiliated with Abu Zaid temple, D. O. K. K., of Oakland, and California Santa No. 5, Nomads of Avarduka of Oakland. Cremation at the Oakland crematory in Howe street will follow the funeral services.

Local Tennis Club Meets September 16

The Richmond Tennis club will meet Friday, September 16, at the city hall, in lieu of tomorrow which is Admission Day. It was announced yesterday by W. L. "Doc" Seawright, president of the club.

Final plans for a tennis breakfast will be made at this time, and reports on tournaments given. Several new members are also expected to be received into membership.

C. S. FORD IN SOUTH

City Plumber Inspector C. S. Ford left yesterday for the southern part of the state where he will spend two weeks' vacation.

HUGE TRAFFIC GAIN SEEN IN BRIDGE REPORT

Cars From All Sections
Use Carquinez Link
In Coast Travel

Up to and including August 31 last, 400,376 automobiles and 1,076,619 passengers crossed the new Carquinez Bridge, according to a statement issued to the stockholders of the American Toll-bridge Company yesterday by Oscar H. Klatt, president, and Geo. J. Caffery, vice-president.

During the ten days in May during which the bridge was open 57,654 machines crossed and 167,084 passengers.

June saw 100,830 machines cross the bridge, July 133,085, and August 108,807.

During ten days in May and during the months of June, July and August in 1926 the Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry carried 213,132 machines and 564,127 passengers.

The bridge took over the ferry business upon its completion and carried 400,376 machines and 1,076,619 passengers during the same period in 1927.

The bridge has been open three months and cars from practically every section of the country have already passed over its broad, reinforced concrete floor. Even in the small hours of the morning motorists avail themselves of the facility and ease with which the strait can be crossed and speed to their varied destinations. Should the existing traffic increase continue, it would appear that dividends may be resumed in 1928.

Richmond Man Is Given Judgment In Crash Suit

Alfred Maddox of Richmond yesterday obtained judgment of $616 on the court of Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie against John Edstrom, ranch employee, for damage to his automobile in a collision on the San Pablo tank farm hill last November, but was denied his plea for a $2000 judgment for personal injuries.

Testimony showed that Edstrom was operating a truck, owned by James and William O'Hara, without a tail light and that the machine operated by Maddox crashed into the rear of the heavier car. The O'Haras were named as defendants in the action, but when testimony failed to show that Edstrom was operating the truck in the scope of his employment the court granted a non-suit motion eliminating them from any responsibility.

Brake Tests For 141 Cars Made By Police

Operating for one hour and fifty minutes, the Richmond police tested the brakes of 141 automobiles yesterday afternoon. This is the best speed so far made by the police in their drive to eliminate cars with faulty brakes from the road. Of the 141 pairs of brakes tested, 32 were found faulty. Most of those who drove up for the official approval of the brakes, did so of their own accord.

George Bengley was in charge of operations yesterday afternoon, assisted part of the time by these other members of the force: Louis Bradison, Charles Haines, James Blankenship, Jack Kynoch, Carl Shebler, and A. J. Cundy.

Officers To Be Nominated By Local Legion

Officers for Richmond Post No. 10, American Legion, will be nominated at a session of the post tonight, and elections will be held September 22. At the meeting tonight Charles W. St. John, adjutant will give a report on the work of the Veterans' Welfare board.

LOEW RITES ARE MARKED BY THEATRES

Out of respect to Marcus Loew, motion picture magnate, who died Monday, the California and Richmond theatres in this city will remain closed today until 1:30 this afternoon, it was announced by Dan Reardon and Harry Losh, managers. All West Coast theatres along the Pacific coast from San Diego to Seattle will observe the same program.

Loew's funeral will be held at the Pembroke home, Glencove, L. I., this morning at 11 o'clock. He was the operator of dozens of corporations and rose from an early life with bankruptcies, heartbreak, and failures and poverty.

Son of humble Viennese immigrants, the theatrical owner and producer whose possessions lived into three continents, lived a romance of drama.

A full-scale vaudeville showman, Loew ran a himself as a showman at two, his way out of East Side poverty to a home of palatial proportions on Long Island.

That is the story of Marcus Loewenstein (Loew), probably the largest purveyor of movie and stage entertainment in the world.

Boy Scouts Plan Court Of Award

Robert F. Cox, local scoutmaster, has been appointed district commissioner in recognition of his work during the past three years, according to an announcement made last night by J. R. Warner, scout executive.

Plans for a scoutmaster school in this district to be held during October and November, were discussed last night by the Richmond District Board of Boy Scouts at Scouts hall, Eighth street and Ohio avenue, Claude E. Clark, presiding.

It is planned to hold a big rally and court of award early in October, when it is hoped to have the Napa scouts present their three-act play: "Playing the Game."

Seaman Takes Car; Police Take Him

Appropriating an automobile without the owner's consent proved disastrous to John R. Graham, seaman on the steamship District of Columbia, yesterday. Sergeant Charles S. Mahnke and Patrolman F. H. Hawkins noticed a car swerving at the intersection of Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue and placed Graham under arrest.

When they arrived at police station and began conducting an investigation, Peter Boljat, 1121 Clinton avenue arrived and reported the disappearance of his car which he had parked. It was the same car that Graham had appropriated for his own use.

He appeared before Justice of the Peace John Roth yesterday and was bound over to the superior court. He is in the county jail awaiting trial in lieu of $1,000 bail.

MRS. ALICE MORRIS IS TO ATTEND CONCLAVE

Mrs. Alice Morris, city clerk of El Cerrito, and Miss Mame Conlon, will leave in a week for Sacramento to attend the California League of Municipalities meeting there. They will also visit Lake Tahoe. Mrs. Morris is El Cerrito's delegate to the meeting of the league.

ART COON BAGS BUCK

Art Coon returned to Richmond yesterday from Mendocino county where he spent the holidays on a hunting trip. Coon brought back with him a buck.

In Hospital

SOCIETY friends are concerned over illness of Mrs. Milton Holden (above), the former Josephine Wedener Ledy, heiress, who is in private Philadelphia hospital.

EXCHANGE CLUB DINNER TONITE

A large delegation of Exchange club members from Martinez will be present at the Richmond Exchange club dinner meeting tonight at Hotel Carquinez at 6:10 o'clock, according to President Henry C. Solto.

Several musical numbers on the program are expected to demonstrate the entertaining propensities of the Martinez Exchange members.

Two delegates from the Richmond Exchange club will be selected to represent the local club at the National Exchange clubs convention sessions which are to be held at San Francisco next week.

Merchants Assn. To Hold First Meet Monday

The first meeting of the Richmond Merchants Association, following the summer vacation will be held in the Hotel Carquinez next Monday at noon. A speaker and musical numbers will compose the program for the luncheon to which all members have been requested to bring a guest and particularly prospective members. Announcements of the meeting were mailed yesterday.

Divorce Awarded Mrs. Palamiro

Her husband's alleged denial of the paternity of one of five children aided Mrs. Celia Palamiro of Richmond to obtain an interlocutory decree of divorce from Enrico Palamiro in Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie's court yesterday. Mrs. Palamiro charged that her husband had denied the paternity of the youngest child, a boy and had unjustly accused her of associating with other men.

In dividing custody of the children Judge McKenzie gave the child of disputed parentage and two daughters to the mother and two sons to Palamiro. The wife's complaint was uncontested.

EUNICE JAMES ON SACRAMENTO VISIT

Miss Eunice M. James of 926 Eighth street is now in Sacramento visiting relatives. Miss James will see the State fair while in Sacramento.

11 ACRE TRACT TO BE SITE OF CHURCHSCHOOL

Institution For Training
Of Priests Is Salesian
Fathers' Plan

Upon the best of authority it is learned that negotiations are practically completed for the taking over of eleven acres of the Butts ranch, just inside of the city limits of Richmond by the Salesian Fathers of San Francisco, a branch of the Catholic church.

EXTENSIVE ACREAGE
The property contains a fifteen room mansion, a smaller cottage, several outbuildings, and a fruit orchard, besides being covered with ornamental trees, shrubs and a landscape garden.

MAY ACQUIRE OTHER TRACT
The other portion of the Butts ranch, containing 20 acres, is outside of the limits of Richmond, but in San Pablo township, is not included in the present deal, but it is said that negotiations have been opened by the Salesian Fathers for the acquiring of this tract also.

Just what the consideration is for the property has not been learned but it is understood that it will reach into the thousands.

COLLEGE TO BE BUILT
The property the Salesian Fathers are acquiring will be used as a college for the education of men for the priesthood. This branch of the Catholic church specializes in missionary work, and those who enter the church for this work will take a course of study that will cover a period of from eight to ten years.

ORDER ACTIVE
The Salesian Fathers are very active on the Pacific coast, and are in charge of churches in San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles. The society's principal church in San Francisco is that of St. Peter and St. Paul, located on Filbert street in the North Beach district.

The province of the western Father Oreste Trinchetti of San Francisco.

Just how many professors will be assigned to this new college has not yet been announced, nor has the date of opening been determined at this time.

REMODEL BUILDING
The present buildings will be remodeled and made suitable for college purposes, and it is very likely additional buildings will be erected.

CREDIT DUE FATHER PORTA
Father Joseph Porta, pastor of St. Joseph's church at San Pablo has been working for a long time to have one of the church's colleges located in this section, and it is said that it was due to his efforts that the Salesian Fathers decided upon the Butts property.

Lighted Match Sets Fire To Residence

Prompt and efficient work on the part of the Richmond Fire department saved the home of Mrs. Clyde Phillips at 333 South Ninth street shortly after noon yesterday. A match carelessly tossed in a woodbox behind a range is believed to have caused the fire. Engines Nos. 2 and 4 and truck No. 1 responded. Damages were slight.

RAILWAY AUXILIARY TO HOLD WHIST

A public whist party will be given by the auxiliary of the Order of Railway Conductors this afternoon at Memorial hall. The prizes for the afternoon are on display in the window of the Marathon andy store.

SEEKING UNIFORMITY IN STATE LAWS

There will never be uniform laws throughout the United States until there is first a general appreciation of the value of such statutes, is the prediction of George B. Young of Montpelier, Vt. Mr. Young is president of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. The purpose of this organization is not contrary to state rights in any way. In fact, if state laws were more uniform than they are, there would be fewer demands for federal legislation on various topics. Those who seek federal legislation in many cases base their arguments on the unwillingness or inability of the state governments to co-operate in dealing with a problem.

Mr. Young believes that it is the duty of lawyers to educate the public to the desirability of having uniform laws. He says, however, that it must be understood from the beginning that there are a number of subjects which should be covered by uniform laws. In this class he places subjects as to which there is a wide or irreconcilable difference of opinion, even when the subject is one on which uniformity is desirable.

Possibly traffic legislation would be included in that class. There is wide difference of opinion as to what kind of traffic rules are best and there seems to be a general impression the uniformity is desirable since so much of the motor vehicle traffic is interstate. Too eager attempts to gain uniformity do not mean real progress, because when there is lack of uniformity there is also opportunity for experimenting, and only by experimenting can the best be obtained.

How To Earn Money!

By SARA SPENCE

I do fine sewing and embroidery, and I believe I could make a little money if I knew where to dispose of my work. B. T. (New Jersey).

Try your hand at making smocks. A dainty touch of embroidery on collar and pockets will make them individual. In the beginning use practical materials, and do not set your price too high. You could even have a "Little Smock Shop" in your own home.

I must earn some money. I am a good laundress and have a good place for washing and drying clothes. Where can I get the washing to do? MRS. F.

A small ad might help you get started. Go to all the apartment houses in your neighborhood and tell people that you want laundry. Don't call it "washing." Why don't you have some neat cards printed and hand them out to prospective customers?

I need outdoor air, yet I must earn a little money also. I can do the following: Sew, operate a typewriter, drive a car and make tea and ink drawings.

I have a friend who is making quite a little income teaching women to drive. Of course, you must have confidence and plenty of patience if you make a success of this line of work. You can advertise your service, or you might be able to connect yourself with some of the garages and automobile salesmen in your town. You should be able to earn from $35 to $40 a week.

I make beautiful monograms—that is, I embroider them. I get all the work I can do, but I believe my prices are too low. What should I charge? FRANCES.

The average rate of monogramming a table cloth and napkins, using a simple block letter, is $1.50 for the cloth and 45 cents for the napkin. For more decorative letters your charges will be higher. Fancy letters sometimes bring as much as $2.50 an initial for the cloth and about 80 cents for each of the napkins.

Mrs. Sarah Spence will answer all questions on "How To Earn Money at Home." Address her care of this paper.

What Do You Know?

1. What is the most precious metal in jewelry making?
2. What is a widow's peak?
3. How many unmarried women and girls are there in the United States?
4. What is mother of pearl?
5. Where in the bible do you find this: "Vanity of vanities. All is vanity?"
6. What color is a mauve, b. camellia?
7. What is a perfect 36?
8. Who wrote: "A thing of beauty is a joy forever?"

My ten-year-old daughter suffers with St. Vitus dance. What can I do to help her? I want to get her in good condition for school in the fall. MRS. S. J.

Do not be in any hurry about sending the child to school. Her health is worth more than schooling, which at present can scarcely be called education. The usual methods would be a few days on fresh fruits with daily enemas to prepare for the milk and fruit diet which is followed.

Little miss of 2 to 6 who would be strictly up to date wears a cunning little bloomer frock of sprigged challs. These dainty little dresses come in white or blue with trailers and buds in pastel shades and are trimmed with contrasting band and hand stitchery.

What Your Face Tells

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison PSYD.

THE SOURCE OF THAT GENIAL SMILE

Have you ever observed how different you look when you smile? Have you ever noticed how different you look when you smile? We start out in life smiling easily and naturally, but sometimes the cares of life take the smile from our lips and knit furrows in our brows.

Just how do you smile? Do you smile with your lips pulled together like this man or do you open your mouth with a ha ha? A smile may be anything from a mere twinkle of the eyes to hysteria and convulsions. Every kind of smile and laughter has a different meaning. For instance the lover's modest smile is not like the cynic's smile of contempt.

The genial sympathetic smile differs from the laugh of superiority. And many others might be named clear up to the titling giggle. But the important subject is how do you smile, how much do you smile and why do you smile?

There are many reasons why one should smile and but few why one should not. Smiles are human sunshine. Just as the rays of the sun give greenness to the fields and color to the apple, so smiles transform the human countenance, adding a warmth to beauty, lighting the eye, chasing the lines of care and giving every man a friend. Good humor is a magnet that attracts people to you and holds them. The foundation of a charming personality is laid in the elements of cheer, merriment and a joyful heart. On its physical side laughter stimulates the glands of internal secretion and thus assists in maintaining the chemical balance of the blood.

Do you ever forget the face that smiles? Do you not enjoy dealing with the man who smiles? This illustration pictures a man who is not the born humorist. He is just a good-natured man, one who has a feeling of friendship for every one.

He has never permitted the world to pull down the corners of his mouth.

THE FACE REFLECTS. A face always reflects the condition of the mind within. The lines of this man's face are those that laugh, not those that cry. His lines show a pleasing, kindly paper.

How To Earn Money at Home.

By Sara Spence

When a wife seeks revenge against the woman who has broken up her home, she does not tighten the marriage bonds between herself and husband. She is apt to find out too late that by her own actions she has played into the hands of the other woman.

Dear Patricia Lee: We have been married three years and were happy until two months ago, when my husband became infatuated with another woman. Now he spends much of his time with her and comes home only when he feels like it. She is pretty and holds a very good position. She has money for I am sure she has given money to my husband. I would like to see her suffer for what she has done. Besides I love my husband and want him back. Do you think I should have her arrested or should I expose her to her friends and employers? Please help me. DORIS spirit. He has a host of friends who reach out to his genial smile as they do to a fire on the hearth when winter comes.

Check up on yourself. Analyze the smile you wear when you are around home, around the office, or in business. How do you stand up under trouble? Can you smile when everything goes dead wrong? Smiling pays big dividends. Often a sour long face drives away business and friends from home. Any one can develop the habit of smiling. First get hold of yourself. Get the notion. Get in harmony with the world. Begin at your heart.

Stop at the first mirror; look yourself squarely in the face. See if the lines of your mouth turn upward or downward. Force yours to turn them upward regardless of the burdens you feel you must have. Read humor, practice telling funny stories, develop the habit of being happy and you will soon possess the smile that won't come off.

Find out as quickly as possible what vocation you should follow in life and get into it, and your days will be days of merriment and joy. Go to sleep with a smile in your heart and you will awaken with a smile on your face.

Questions concerning beauty building through physical culture will receive the personal attention of Lady Grey, beauty culturist, and should be signed by the writer's full name and address, which will not be used without permission. Address her, care of this newspaper.

woman who feels that she has the exclusive right to exercise the hospitality of the home. She makes hubby's friends feel as if they were intruders and expects him to register joy when her friends appear on the scene. It seems to me in all common fairness that William should have a few privileges in his own home, and I believe his own wife will recognize and respect his rights if he will assert himself in a tactful way.

Says the MAN. Dear Patricia Lee:

My wife and I are continually quarreling over our friends. She does not approve of mine, and, to be quite frank, I think hers are stupid and silly. At the same time I do not make my feelings known. I am never permitted to ask my friends or any of my family to the house, even though I "pay the freight." If they come they are made to feel like intruders. On the other hand, I am supposed to give the glad hand to my wife's relatives and friends, who are free to come but what is a man to do?

William G. You are quite right, William. "Turn about is fair play," even in the matter of guests. Why don't you speak up and explain to your wife that you, too, should have certain privileges? Perhaps she is just thoughtless. And if you will only appeal to her sense of justice the chances are that she will rise to the situation and give you an even break. Have you talked this matter over with her, or have you just carried a chip around on your shoulder, hoping things will take a turn without any help on your part? Some people have to be told, William, and doubtless your wife is one of them.

The milk diet is practically always preceded by a fast or fruit diet, the length of which depends upon the exact condition, but is seldom less than three days. The milk is then started with a glass every two hour the first day, and every one hour the next day, every forty-five minutes the third day, and every half hour thereafter. The quantity thus ranges from three pints to six quarts. Enemas are used as necessary until the bowels move naturally. Due attention is given to all general health building measures.

SYNOPSIS

It is the summer of 1896; Hank Armstrong has won the Maple City races with his mare, Sloc Eyes. His son, Bob, however, takes no interest in horses, much to Hank's disappointment, but divides his time between inventing of gasoline engines, without his father's knowledge, and the Mayor's daughter, Rose. Bob and Rose are in the drug store one evening when Steve Bentley, just returned from the city, invites Rose to accompany him to a dance. Bob, becoming angry, reminds the girl that her father is entertaining Haynes, the inventor, that night, and that she has promised to be there.

CHAPTER II—Continued

Steve looked at Bob as though he could wring that young gentleman's neck without further provocation. Then he turned, smiling, to Rose and pulled back the lapel of his coat so that the girl could see the button pinned thereon. A deep pink mounted from her throat to her forehead as she read: "I'm for you. Oh, yes, kid!" But as Steve leaned forward toward Rose he deliberately set his hand down on the table, right in the center of Bob's model, crushing it into a hundred pieces. But Bob, Bob jealously watching this encounter, saw nothing but Rose and Steve. And boy-like, he felt hurt.

His eyes met a drawing of a gasoline engine.

that something was going on between the two in which he wasn't invited to participate. He turned away, scowling, and then his glance fell to the table, and he stared, as he saw his wrecked machine, ground under his rival's hand. He looked again at Steve, now furious, and found him still entranced with Rose. As he stared Steve turned towards him and with a sneering grin pulled back his other coat lapel. Another round, white button appeared, this time facing Bob, and the boy read: "Go way back and sit down."

With this last and overwhelming insult, Bob's reserve left him. He raised his fist and without further ado brought it down with a resounding bang on Steve's hand, which still rested on the table. "Hey! What do you think you're doing," howled Steve, in pain.

Bob rose, pointed to the wrecked machine, and slowly drew back his fist for another blow. But Rose, who had been close by, stepped in between them and caught Bob's arm in her two small hands.

"Please, Bob—please," she cried, the tears already gathering in her brown eyes. "Bob, I want to go home. Will you take me?"

The drug store loungers looked around, mildly interested. Silently Bob drew Rose's hand through his arm, set his bowler derby on his head, and the two started towards the door. Down the street in the rain they walked, Rose daintily lifting her billowing, ruffled skirts clear of the mud, and showing all of two inches of a deliciously turned ankle. At the moment, however, Bob was in no mood for ankles at the moment. He was deeply wounded—not so much because Steve had crushed his machine, as because of the thought that had impelled the deed.

Machines—great, powerful machines that would some day be the means of locomotion throughout the world.

And not only that, Bob's thoughts wandered, on Rose, whom he adored and idolized, had flirted with that guy, just because he wore city clothes and spouted cheap wit. But perhaps Rose couldn't help Steve's advances. After all, she had turned down his invitation to go to a dance so that she might be with Bob at the lecture the next evening. That was something, anyhow. But he'd like to see Steve Bentley hanging around his girl. A few more actions of that sort, and Bob would see what was what. Steve could go and find a girl of his own. He needn't come snooping around Rose. And if he did, Bob could show him as

CHAPTER III

While Hank had been buying cigars for the boys in the drug store, Sam, his stable boy, had been busy around Sloc Eyes' stall. The mare was certainly under the weather. Her four day old colt was standing beside her, gazing down at the sick mother with tender eyes. "I shot" with Mister Hank was here," Sam was shaking his head with a worried expression. "Ol' Sloc Eyes ain't well a tall." Sam handed the smaller negro beside him the lantern and opened the stall door. "Better take the colt out."

As the boy led the faltering little baby-mare toward the adjoining stall the door of the main entrance opened and Hank drove into the stable in his new buckboard, drenched with rain. He pulled up near the two negroes, who stood staring uneasily, afraid of what might happen when Hank learned that Sloc Eyes was sick. The horse-fancier hurried forward, sensing that something was amiss. Looking to the stall, he saw the mare prone on the straw with the horse blanket drawn over her. He dashed in, grinding his cigar beneath his heel, and dropped to his knees beside the suffering animal.

Hank examined Sloc Eyes, crooning and comforting her. Then he jumped up, whipped a comb and strode into his office. Crossing to a table at the far end of the room he threw open the door of a crude cabinet. His eyes met—not the horse medicine, as he had expected—but a T square, a set of drawing instruments and a bottle of India ink. He frowned, puzzled. Then he glanced down at the table, only to see a copy of the Scientific American and places of red paper thumb-tacked to a drawing board. The magazine, to his horror, was spread open to a picture of one of the first automobiles and, as he looked more closely, he discovered on the tracing paper an attempt at a drawing of a single cylinder gasoline engine.

"Where in hell's the medicine?" he called out, brushing the papers to the floor contemptuously. "What's happened here?"

"Mr. Bob, son," began Sam, entering the office hesitatingly. "Mister Bob done make a sort of workshop out'n de office."

Hank frowned. "Then? Send for Dr. Martin, quick! And you find Bob."

"Yes, suh!" Sam scuttled away to send his stable-boy companion after the doctor while he himself headed for the Armstrong home in search of Bob.

Sloc Eyes, shivering, whimpering in pain, called to her master. Hank hurried into the stable, grabbed another horse blanket and spread it lovingly over the animal. He stroked her head and crooned. Once the mare attempted to raise her head, but Hank at once held her provoking. The colt, straining its neck to glimpse its mother, whined in answer to the maternal moans. Hank's mind was running round and round in a circle. Why didn't that confounded doctor get there. Something had to be done. Where was Bob? What had he been doing with those drawings of that horseless carriage? Silly, to think that a machine could take the place of any horse! Where was the doctor? Why didn't he come? Where was Bob?

Bob was still in the drug store, however, and his mind was far from Sloc Eyes and the stable. So that when the colored mammy opened the door of the Armstrong home in reply to Sam's knock, she sniffed indignantly at the negro's question.

"Ef you is lookin' for Mister Bob," she answered, "you'd better go to de Mayor's house where Miss Rose is at." Whereupon she slammed the door in the boy's face.

As Sam made off at a dog trot the second stable boy entered with Dr. Martin. The old veterinarian brushed the rain from his tall, round crowned hat and shook the water from the tippet about his neck. Hank rose from his position beside the horse, explaining what had happened. Dr. Martin listened calmly. A horse was only a horse to him and he could not feel any personal interest in Sloc Eyes. He nodded curtly to Hank and then knelt down, placing his hand beneath the horse's jaw to feel the pulse.

You shall never live to tell what you have seen, cried Milady, rushing at him with a poniard.

D'Artagnan succeeded in eluding the weapon and locked Milady in her chamber.

D'Artagnan hurried to Athos with his terrible story. "Milady has a Fleur-de-lis on her shoulder," he said. "Are you sure your bride was dead?"

Athos was convinced that Milady and his wife were the same only when D'Artagnan produced a certain ring of Milady's. "It must be she," he said with a groan.

Relaxation Keynote Of Poise, Says Lady Grey

Some girls are born with poise, some few acquire it and the great majority never achieve it. But what, you may ask, does poise have to do with beauty and physical culture living?

Have you ever noticed a very beautiful girl who acted in public in a haughty, scornful fashion who seemed to radiate every time she was spoken to?

She seemed restless and disturbing. You were sure she had nerves and that the slightest thing would upset her.

The chances are you were perfectly right. You will never—and I say never advisedly, keeping in mind the exception that always proves a rule—you will never find a really healthy, happy girl who doesn't have a personal poise.

If she is well and has a certain self reliance, she is not self-conscious. She knows how to stand and sit and walk correctly. But there is a certain indefinable something—some people call it charm—that is real poise.

As I say, some girls are born with it. Those who aren't can achieve it if they only will. Relaxation is the keynote of poise.

The moment your muscles are knotted up in nervous tension you have lost poise. First of all learn to walk correctly. Your carriage and erect bearing, with head high and shoulders back, will give you a confidence in yourself and cause people to appreciate you.

Walk with a free, swinging and full stride, not as if you were walking a marathon, but with ease and grace. Practice walking correctly before a long mirror.

One good relaxing exercise is this: Stand erect, all of a sudden go limp. Let your body fall forward from the waist. Make no move to stop its falling forward. Act lifeless. Stretch and repeat.

Perhaps you have some other form of foot trouble such as corns, bunions, weak ankles, cramped toes, painful heels, etc. If so, come in and let us give you a Free Demonstration. You will find that it is no longer necessary to suffer foot aches and pains.

Dr. Scholl's Arch Supports will quickly and permanently relieve this condition by gently but firmly supporting the depressed bones, and removing the strain and pressure on the weakened parts.

Our repair department takes care of all your needs.

DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM NEEDS TOLD AT MEET

The policy of the East Bay Municipal Utility District and plans that have been made for a new mountain water supply were explained by Dr. George C. Pardee, president of the district at a citizen's meeting at the Hotel Carquinez in Richmond yesterday. An early bond issue to provide for a municipally owned distribution system was held to be a vital necessity.

According to Dr. Pardee, the plant of the East Bay Water Company must be acquired or a separate system be built.

"Only in this way," he declared, "can the people of the nine east bay cities gain revenue from their mountain water project and keep down a mounting tax rate."

EXPENSE BY DIRECT TAX According to Dr. Pardee all the expenses of the district, including interest charges and bond redemption in the construction of the $29,000,000 Mokelumne project must, under the law, be met by direct taxation.

URGES OWN SYSTEM "If we were in the water business," said Dr. Pardee, "we could meet these expenses with revenue from the sale of water. If we do not go into the water business we are going to find our taxes going higher and higher to take care of this great water project and meanwhile, we will go on every year paying millions to the East Bay Water company. It is proposed that we go into the water business and pay water bills to ourselves."

$1,200,000 BILL IN 1926 "In 1926," the people of the district paid the Water Company, practically $4,200,000. If the district had even that income it could pay the interest on the something like $60,000,000 or so, that the Mokelumne and a distributing system will cost, and have something like $1,200,000 left over for the other expenses of the district. But the Water Company's income will be something like $300,000 more this year than it was last year. Next year it will probably be as much more than this year, and so on, as the district grows. So, the left over, after paying $3,000,000 for interest on $60,000,000 would constantly increase from year to year, as the population of the district increases. If we owned a distributing system, "If we don't get a distributing system before the Mokelumne is completed, in a couple of years or so, we'll have to pay annually $1,750,000, in taxes, for the interest on the $35,000,000, or so, the Mokelumne will cost, plus the other expenses of the district. That will mean a very much higher tax—something like three times as much as was last year's tax—do your own figuring."

ACTION HELD NECESSARY "Until we get an income from some other source, we'll have to pay all the district's expenses, including construction, out of taxes. The only source of income other than taxes, is, of course, by selling water, just at the East Bay Water company, gets its income—$4,200,000 last year, and more every year. And the only satisfactory way in which we can sell water is by getting a distributing system. And there are only two ways by which we can get a distributing system—either, by buying such parts of the East Bay Water company's plant (if they can be gotten at a reasonable price) as the district needs; or, failing that, to put in a distributing system of our own."

Members of Unity lodge, Daughters of St. George and their husbands will be entertained by Mrs. Myra Thayer this evening at her home at 1252 Fifty-sixth street.

Mooseheart Members To Attend School Of Instruction

All the officers and about 15 of the members of the local Mooseheart Legion will attend the school of instruction to be given in San Francisco September 12 and 13. It was announced last night. This school will acquaint the members with the entire scope of ritualistic work of the Mooseheart Legion and also of the chapters in the work which were made at the convention last June. Dr. June Martin, deputy grand regent at large, will conduct the school, which will be attended by the chapters from the following cities: Stockton, San Jose, Richmond, San Francisco, Petaluma, Vallejo, Martinez and Santa Cruz.

A banquet in honor of Dr. Martin will be given at the Hotel Warman in San Francisco, September 12, Monday, in the evening. Other grand officers will also be honored at the meeting.

The meeting of the Legion last night was presided over by Mrs. Minnie Phillips in the absence of Mrs. Daisy Mayo. There was a practice of ritualistic and floor work. The following committee served refreshments: Mrs. Colla Rook, Mrs. Nina Ridley, Mrs. Nellie La Londe and Mrs. Marie Lee Kelly.

REMARKS IN THE RECORD-HERALD

Citizenship Is Topic At Meet Of Kiwanis

"Citizenship" was the topic of the address of Jack Houston, manager of the American Legion News, who was the speaker of the day at the Kiwanis luncheon yesterday.

Houston spoke of the work of the Legion in fostering citizenship among its members and elsewhere and declared that prior to the war citizenship in this nation was at a low ebb. The work of the legion among Boy Scouts was also spoken of by Houston.

Harry Kornkohl and Emil Edoia entertained at the piano and Bert Scoble sang several numbers. Rev. Weldon Wilson and Harry Bodger of the San Rafael Ferry company were admitted as new members.

WESLEY CIRCLE NO. 5 TO MEET TODAY

Mrs. G. F. Tandy, of 673 Thirtieth street will entertain Circle No. 5 of the Wesley Methodist church at her home at 2 o'clock this afternoon. After the business meeting a social hour will be enjoyed with Mrs. Tandy, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Myers the hostesses. Those members who have finished work for the bazaar are asked to turn in.

THESE STORES WILL REMAIN OPEN ON ADMISSION DAY, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9th

Owing to the fact that Stores in most of the Bay Cities will remain open on Admission Day, Friday, September 9, the following Richmond stores will provide similar service for their patrons by remaining open on that day.

RICHMOND WINS COUNTY SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP RICHMOND GRID TEAM TO MEET UNIVERSITY HIGH

LOCAL ELEVEN IS PRIMED FOR BATTLE TODAY

The Richmond Union high eleven plays the second game of the season today when they go to Berkeley to meet the University high school team. The game will be played on the Berkeley grounds, Fifty-second and Grove streets.

Coach Ivan Hill has been giving his men a workout this week, following their victorious game last week when they beat Oakland Tech. The rough edges that showed up in the last game have been rounded out and the team today will be in better form.

All the games of the local high this year will have to be played away from home because of no field available here. The former grounds across from the school are now subdivided property and the team has been using Nicholl park for training purposes. The grounds there are not suited to games because of the small shrubs planted recently, damage to which is feared by the city, if crowds are admitted to the park. Union high will therefore be forced to play all games away from home until the field at the new high school is completed or other ground are secured.

On Saturday, the team will play the St. Helena high school.

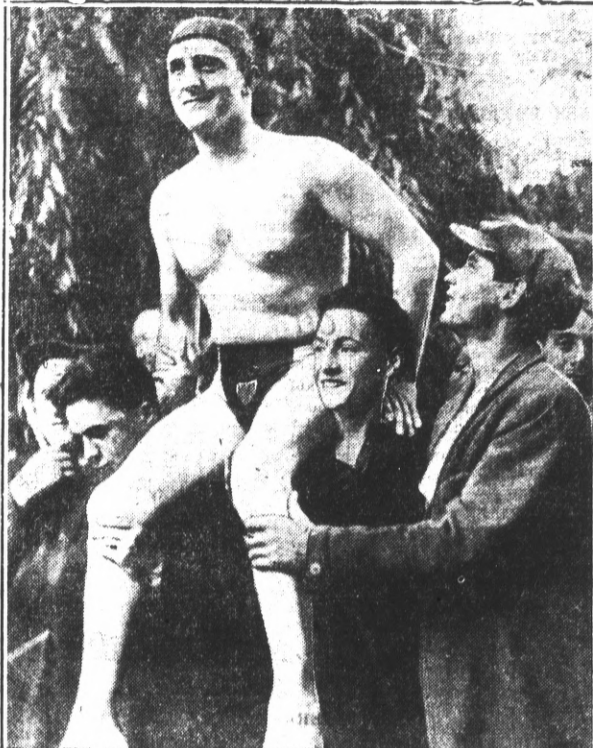

Coach Hill will use in today's games the following regular members of the team: Jackson and Truitt, centers; Captain Diamanti and Minor, Rountree and Neckel, guards; Schaefer, Dunleavy and Fisher, tackles; Fitzpatrick, J. Baldwin, Johnson and Barreres, ends; Williams and Bumgarner, quarter; Scarceola and Sakal, Swenson and Hall, halves and Baldwin, full.

German and French Bakers Cop Dough in Toronto Swim

Richard Keeps Wary Eye On Gloaters "Knocking" Bout

By GENE FOWLER
(Universal Service Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Inconsiderate persons, who would seek to stop Tex Rickard's big battle of the birdseye view on September 22, tonight were gloating over certain alleged facts. While it seems improbable at this writing that the money-Dempsey will go by the board, Mr. Rickard is keeping a wary eye and ward. Indeed, Mr. Rickard is watching and warding so strenuously that the thermal waves emanating from his collar are credited with having caused the local heat wave.

Mr. Rickard's adam's apple tonight was about the most effective model the fireless cooker people have had on the market in several seasons. For instance, he slipped a glass of feed coffee and when it traversed his throat returned out a formerly perfect eggplant.

First of all, it developed that the bout has not been legally sanctioned. Yesterday the boxing commission called for the lease that must be signed by George Getz and the South Park board. Mr. Getz is the nominal promoter of the battle of the birdseye view. The board controls Soldier field. The place of the prospective activities of the gold rush leaders, "Red Gulch" Tunney and "Sour Dough" Dempsey.

It then was learned that the lease had not been signed. Some hold a view that the lease will not be signed until the eleventh hour, to make impossible any court action tended to snarl the staging of the bout.

Furthermore, if anybody were to bring legal action, who could be sued? This is being asked by the observers, who note that Rickard has absolutely no status as a promoter under the Illinois laws governing boxing. These regulations demand that a promoter have three years of bona fide residence in Illinois. To dodge that issue, George Getz, who never promoted a fight before, was named as the "promoter" for the battle of the birdseye view. He was called on as "promoter" to put up a bond of $200,000. A dollar of which is understood to have been paid in actual cash. Regardless of Getz's technical status, the success or failure of the show will devolve on Rickard, the real promoter, but, say those who would stir up trouble, Rickard can't be penalized for any untoward happening evolving from the meeting between the two eminent heavyweight prospectors who are here for their pay dirt. For, legally Rickard can't be a promoter here, so legally he can't have any responsibility. The commission cannot suspend him, because theoretically it has no jurisdiction over Tex.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—While all the flag contenders in the National League except the Giants were in action today, the only club to improve its standing was the New York cubs. Although observing an open date, the McGraw men advanced to within half a game of the league-leading Pirates, who took another setback from the Reds. The Cards and Cubs divided a twin session.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

TORONTO, Ont.—William Wrigley, the big spearmint man, cast a lot of bread upon the ruffled waters of Lake Ontario and two jokers running true to form, grabbed all of the dough in sight.

Ernst Vierkoetter, German swimmer of the English Channel, the winner of the $30,000 first prize in this Lake Ontario marathon, is a baker by trade, but a champion at heart.

Georges Michel, the roly-poly Frenchman, who finished second, is also a baker by trade.

Jim Schultz, the demon Broadmoor Club golfer, standing upon the deck of the S. S. Mieses, official press boat, gave birth to an original witicism as Vierkoetter plowed past the finish line.

"There's one baker who won't knead dough any more," said Mr. Schultz, just before two Canadian Northwest Mounted Police threw him overboard. The punishment was merited and the scarlet-garbed coppers always get their man.

At this stage of the swim I haven't been able to find any one versed in swimming technique to tell me what stroke Vierkoetter used. I think it was a water roll.

This was the retirement of an old feud between Vierkoetter and Michel.

Vierkoetter, the German champion, had crossed the English Channel in record time until Michel came along and broke the record.

Yesterday Vierkoetter showed all of the speed, while Michel, who is built along the lines of Johnny Risko, waddled placidly through the waves like a contented walrus.

Michel hasn't any speed to speak about, but you know the story of the tortoise and the hare. As I recall my Aesop, the smart money had that race in the bag, getting to the hare and persuading him to go into the tank.

However, Michel proved here that the race is not always to the swift. At least he proved that a bird built for comfort can cop second place.

LAWYERS GREET WINNER AT FINISH

Vierkoetter, the German baker, went into a huddle play with eight lawyers and six syndicates after being pulled from the lake. He no spikks English to the correspondents, reserving the brilliant literary gems for his pool.

Vierkoetter served as a petty officer in the German navy during the war. At Jutland, the German admiral could have outsmarted the allied blockade by allowing Vierkoetter to swim back to Germany for supplies. This fellow apparently was born with a pair of waterwings to his mouth.

He is handicapped, just as Harry Greb was handicapped by the loss of an eye.

One-Eyed Connolly, the gate-crasher who was here, got quite a kick out of the German's triumph. "I hope he doesn't go into the gate-crashing business," said One-Eyed, commenting upon the victory. "I have enough competition now."

Connolly got aboard the press boat by flashing a phoney medal on the man at the gangplank. It was a medal from the Detroit Fire Department which Connolly got for setting fire to the only synagogue near the Ford plant in Detroit.

Connolly took command of the boat before it was an hour out. He halted passing steamers, insulted the lake traffic cops and in general added to the gaiety of the occasion.

AQUATIC STARS BEAT CROCKETT BY CLOSE SCORE

The Richmond swimming club became champions of Contra Costa county last night by defeating the Crockett team at the municipal pool by a score of 35 to 32. Sundman of the Richmond team won three first places, in the fifty-yard breast stroke, the fifty-yard back stroke, and the plunge for distance.

The Crockett team has been defeated by Richmond twice, counting last night's victory, and won from Richmond about a month ago by a close score at the Richmond pool. The Crockett relay team showed up well last night and won that event. Ball of Crockett played a good part for his team, taking first place in the 220-yard free style, third place in the fifty-yard breast stroke, second place in the 100-yard free style and second in the plunge for distance.

SUMMARY

50 yard freestyle, won by Eckberg, Richmond, second: Thomas and Edwards, both of Crockett, (tied for second). Time 27:1.

100 yard freestyle, won by Thomas, of Crockett, second and third, Ball, Crockett and Eckberg, Richmond. Time 1:14.

220 freestyle, won by "Ball, Crockett, second Thomas, Crockett (third dropped out). Time 2:57.

50 yard breast stroke, won by Sundman, Richmond, second and third, Krauskopf and Farlo, both of Crockett. Time 35 seconds.

Plunge for distance, won by Sundman, Richmond, second and third, Ball, Crockett and Sess of Richmond. Distance 49 feet.

Low board diving, won by Siple of Richmond, second and third, Gihbart, Richmond and Upton of Crockett.

Relay won by Crockett. Crockett's team: Krauskopf, Ball, Dryer and Thomas. Richmond team: Howard, Gihbart, Siple and Eckberg.

VACATION LAND FOUND BEYOND GREAT BRIDGE

"San Francisco and East Bay motorists—thousands of them—are just discovering the delights, the charm, the beauty, the historic monuments in Northern and Central California," declared George J. Callen, vice-president and general manager of the Carmichael and Antioch bridges, owned, built and operated by the American Toll Bridge Company.

"The breaking of the water-barriers that forced motorists to the delay and uncertainties of ferries or sent them in a round-about course to Napa and Lake counties and the splendors of the redwoods in the North, to Sacramento, Sutter's Fort, the Marshall Monument at Colusa whose gold was discovered by John Marshall in 1848, Tahoe, Reno, and the Shasta empire, has directed the attention of thousands of motor car owners in the bay district to these wonders of nature. The Netherlands of America, that great delta district between Antioch and Sacramento, following the mighty stream is a trip of continuous delight to eye and mind. The Antioch bridge offers a direct route through the two deltas of the great delta territory in all California. The Carmichael bridge is the direct route to Napa and Lake counties, the Petrified Forest, the Geysers and famous water gardens of California as well as the Redwood Empire and the great Forest of Highways route to the island, Washington, and British Columbia, via the Sacramento Valley."

Last Day for Low Fares EAST

You can still go east at low cost. Summer reduced roundtrip fares are good for return until October 31. Plan to go now and profit by them.

A choice of routes and trains matched by no other transcontinental railroad. For example you can reach Chicago in 63 hours from San Francisco aboard the deluxe San Francisco Overland Limited. Return the same way if you wish or come back via New Orleans and Los Angeles on Sunset Limited, or Golden State Route via El Paso and Los Angeles. It costs no more via these routes, and only slightly additional via Pacific Northwest and the spectacular Shasta Route.

Note the low roundtrip fares quoted here; similar fares to many other places.

LONE S. O. S. 15 ACRE FILL IS SOLE CLUE TO LOST PLANE OF FORD PLANT

director of the flight, which was sponsored by William Randolph Hearst, and his two pilots, Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, are still alive.

FATE MYSTERY

They point out for one thing that maybe the radio alone went out of commission. That would not halt the eastward flight of the plane. They add that even if the plane dropped into the water that Payne and Bertaud and Hill are men of resource and may be drifting on the ocean until they are picked up.

So the state of the brave trio is a mystery tonight.

Several ships searched the rough ocean today and tonight. The Cunard liner Transylvania which was the first to arrive at the approximate position of Old Glory at the time she gave her S. O. S. tonight abandoned the search.

A little later came a message from the Cunard liner Carmania saying:

Now searching along the eastward opposite course of Old Glory. Weather now west to west winds with frequent strong rain squalls and rough breaking seas. Consider little chance of survival of collapsible boat under present conditions, if Old Glory were provided with same.

This message gave the position of the Carmania at 59°25 north, 29°22 west, and added that the visibility was from four to ten miles and the temperature of the air was 59 and the water 62.

These messages tended to shut out the slight thread of hope for the safety of the big monoplane and its three occupants. The plane was about 500 miles east of Newfoundland when the S. O. S. signals were sent.

Members of the Old Glory land crew said tonight that it is possible the radio set was thrown overboard to lighten the load. It was also pointed out by the engineers who had charge of the plane before the flight that the flyers and Payne had plenty of time between the two distress signals to prepare for a forced landing.

Solid fill to the extent of nearly fifteen acres of the Ford Motor Company's 62-acre plant site on Richmond's inner harbor has been made according to City Engineer and Superintendent of Streets E. A. Hoffman, who is supervising the big job of putting fourteen feet elevation on the Ford property and eleven feet elevation on adjacent 100 acres, owned by the Port Terminal and the city of Richmond.

The soft mud and silt, largely water, is being pushed back over the land adjoining which has extended over a portion of the former Gilmour property. As this soft fill settles and dries up, solid fill will be made from the hard soil scooped from the channel along the inner harbor.

A great levee extending around the entire 150 acres, including the Ford site, has been built and it is behind this levee that the dredging from the channel are being dumped.

City Engineer Hoffman says the filling is well under way and that the work is on schedule. The government dredger is working on a 24-hour shift, according to Hoffman and the work is being rushed to capacity.
